

Loofball Scoring Guideline

The loofball score sheet is a sheet of paper on which game points and other vital match details are recorded. The game points and other details must be recorded in a manner such that the score sheet is readable to all. The score sheet should be filled in the following order.

Before the Match

The scorer writes the name of the competition, the date, match code, the city, team names, start time and the arena or court name at the upper section of the score sheet. The scorer also indicates the level and match category by ticking the appropriate box.

The names of players and coaches (submitted by the coaches) are written at the lower section of the score sheet. Other details entered include names of referee, line judges, scorer and assistant scorer.

The coaches also sign the score sheet prior to the match.

During the Match

After the toss or change of sides, the scorer writes the team codes (A or B) according to the each team's position and indicates the first serving team by ticking the relevant 'FS' box.

Time-outs are indicated by ticking the relevant 'T' box.

When a substitute comes on, the scorer shall write the outgoing player's number in the "S1" column against the substitute's name at the lower section of the score sheet. When a player (of the starting line-up) enters the court for the second time, the scorer shall write the outgoing player's number in the 'S2' column against the incoming player's name.

When a player is shown a yellow or red card, the cell in 'Y' or 'R' column is ticked against the player's name.

The scorer announces the score line after a game is won.

Tips on how to score

- Game points are ticked or marked only when a game is won.
- The first or second set ends when a team attains game points of 25, with a 2 point advantage.
- The third set ends when a team attains game points of 20, with a 2 point advantage.
- When both teams attain equal game points of 24 in the first or second set, a deuce is called, and then the first team to lead by 2 points wins the set.
- When both teams attain equal game points of 19 in the third set, a deuce is also called, and then the first team to lead by 2 points wins the set.
- At the end of a set, the last scores of both teams are recorded as set points.

After the Match

At the end of the match, the scorer records the end time at the upper section of the score sheet and the set points in the 'Match Result' area at the lower left section. The match result is approved when the referee, the scorer, the assistant scorer and team captains sign against their names (entered before the match) at the lower right section.
